Transcription

To work out if the programme is right for you, do your research. We have lots of information available on our careers site, we have people profiles, jobs descriptions and I'd encourage you to look through those thoroughly, to make sure you are comfortable with the business area that you are applying to, and to work out if it's the right fit for you.

So, at KPMG we run a strengths-based recruitment process. Now, a strength is something that you do regularly, you do it well and when you are doing it, it energises you.

So, at KPMG there are 11 strengths that we look for our people to demonstrate at work. You can find those on our careers site, where there is lots of detail about each one of them.

So, we'd encourage you to have a look at them, think about whether it's something that you enjoy doing, whether you demonstrate that in your everyday life. And if so, the chances are you probably will enjoy a role at KPMG.

The most important thing is thinking about why you want to work at KPMG. We're really looking for people who are committed to a long-term career with KPMG.
